Notes

A recognised law entity shall not carry on any business other than the practice of Cayman Islands law.

A recognised law entity may carry on business under a name that does not include the word "Limited", or the abbreviation "Ltd.", if it holds itself out to be a recognised law entity.

A person shall not describe itself as a recognised law entity or hold itself out as a recognised law entity unless it is a recognised law entity. Acting in contravention of this is an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine of one hundred thousand dollars.

The managers of a legal entity are responsible for ensuring compliance with statutory obligations and the accuracy and completeness of filings made to the Council.
